Abstract

The longer something is thought to exist, the better it is evaluated. In Study 1, participants preferred an existing university requirement over an alternative; this pattern was more pronounced when the existing requirement was said to be in place for a longer period of time. In Study 2, participants rated acupuncture more favorably as a function of how old the practice was described. Aesthetic judgments of art (Study 3) and nature (Study 4) were also positively affected by time in existence, as were gustatory evaluations of an edible consumer good (Study 5). Features of the research designs argue against mere exposure, loss aversion, and rational inference as explanations for these findings. Instead, time in existence seems to operate as a heuristic; longer means better.

Charles Baudelaire in1859 wrote "Photography is useless and tedious to represent what exists, because nothing that exists satisfies me ... I prefer the monsters of my fantasy to what is positively trivial."

I have seen, and heard, much of Cockney impudence before now; but never expected to hear a coxcomb ask two hundred guineas for flinging a pot of paint in the public's face."

The Case of John Ruskin vs. James Whistler

The artist James Whistler sued art critic John Ruskin for libel in 1878 after Ruskin publicly disparaged Whistler's paintings in a newsletter.

pablorobo NFTs are a rip off. I'll give you a pass given it was for charity but in the long term they will be useless. My clients who seriously collect laugh at them and the people who buy them. It's wrong to sell them to people who know no better.

the_secular_cowboy The NFT market is just as gross, arbitrary and financialized as the old art market, but now with the added benefit of requiring the energy of a small country in order to prove ownership of an image of a smoking chimp. It's like if Ivanka Trump needed the energy output of Uruguay in order to verify she owns one of Damian Hurst's butterfly paintings. What's not to like?

ke4er How can NFTs authenticate art and assure that the person selling the image is the one who makes or owns it?

adrianpelegrin Kenny is an art collector/dealer, not an artist. Everybody can buy and sell art, you just need a bunch of money.
